Study Abroad Compensation Policies

- Colleges will receive equivalent to net student credit hour payout to align with RCM for faculty-led direct credit study abroad programs. Colleges will not receive SCH payout for students who withdraw from the program and are dropped from units.
- Colleges/Departments are responsible for the cost of instruction, including faculty salary and ERE. No salary or ERE is built into the study abroad program budget.

PER DIEM
Travel funds can be used to cover faculty and staff expenses for meals and lodging based on the maximum governmental allowable rates as set by the Department of State www.state.gov. The UA Financial Services Office considers faculty and staff on study abroad programs to be in long-term travel status and prohibits payment of 100% of the federal rate. The UA Study Abroad office considers all programs that spend more than 3 weeks abroad to fall under this category.

Per diem allowances for meals and incidentals on study abroad programs categorized as Short-term Programs will be paid at 70% of the maximum federal rate as part of the program budget. Study abroad programs that spend over 3 weeks abroad will be paid at 50% of the maximum federal rate as part of the program budget.

Lodging costs are negotiated as part of the budget building process and may not exceed 70% of the maximum federal rate for Short-term Programs and 50% for programs that spend over 3 weeks abroad.
