Arizona in Scotland

- Pre-session May 14-June 2
- Scottish trip = June 15-June 29

Application deadline: February 25, 2018

OVERVIEW. This study abroad program is a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to immerse yourself in the culture, language, literature, and history of Scotland. Your professors have close ties to the islanders with whom you’ll live and to the urban riches of Edinburgh. Together, we will examine the impact of the influential scientific, philosophical, and humanistic movement called the “Scottish Enlightenment,” while also exploring the stunning natural landscape in which the movement flourished.

Student experience: “From the men in kilts, to the sounds of bagpipes, to castles, to the wonderful accents….I LOVE SCOTLAND! And thankfully, Edinburgh did not disappoint. It was everything I could have asked for and more!”

ACADEMICS. The program consists of two parts: Students will first enroll in a Tier I: Gen Ed class (ENGL160D) in Pre-session 2018, offered in Tucson, where they will learn about the extraordinary Scottish Enlightenment and its impact on world culture. They will also learn some fundamentals of the Gaelic language from a Native Speaker.

In the second part of the program, students will enroll in a Tier II Gen Ed class (LING211) that will take place in Scotland itself. Starting first in Edinburgh, they will be immersed in an experiential learning approach to the themes they discovered in ENGL160D.

Then they will travel to the Isle of Skye in the Hebrides of Scotland, one of the few places left in the country where Gaelic culture still informs daily life. They will continue their studies of the language and culture on site at Sabhal Mòr Ostaig, the Gaelic College, where they will participate in hands-on workshops, field trips, naturalist hikes, and cultural events that bring to life the history, people, and traditions of Scotland.
