INFORMATION FOR UA STUDENTS, FACULTY, SCHOLARS AND STAFF ON OFFICIAL INTERNATIONAL TRAVEL

EXECUTIVE ORDER & UA INTERNATIONAL TRAVEL

As you may be aware, a recent Executive Order (EO) suspends the entry of immigrant and non-immigrant nationals from Iran, Iraq, Libya, Somalia, Sudan, Syria, and Yemen to the United States.

President Ann Weaver Hart has released a message in response found at: http://president.arizona.edu/memos_letters/message-ua-community. At this time there is no apparent impact to UA travelers who are U.S. citizens or who are returning to the U.S. on immigrant and non-immigrant visas (unless they are passport holders, citizens, nationals or dual nationals of one of the designated countries listed in the EO). However, outbound UA travelers should evaluate travel risks at this time in consideration of potential difficulties abroad or in returning to the United States. UA students, faculty, scholars, and staff on immigrant and non-immigrant visas affected by the Executive Order should not travel internationally at this time.

If you are currently abroad and potentially impacted by the travel ban please notify, as appropriate:
- International Student Services: Joanne Lagasse-Long at 520-621-4627 or dso@email.arizona.edu
- International Faculty Scholars: Dana Bleau at 520-626-6289 or uaifs@email.arizona.edu

TRAVEL SAFETY AND DEMONSTRATIONS

Protests and demonstrations may occur in cities both domestically and abroad, particularly near U.S. embassies and consulates. UA travelers should avoid large gatherings in public spaces, particularly in areas of anticipated demonstrations due to heightened risks of spontaneous and quickly escalating violence. While abroad:
- Maintain situational awareness.
- Anticipate potential disruptions with transportation and localized travel.
- Allow additional transit time.
- Keep a phone charged and with you at all times.
- Following any events that might prompt concern for your well-being, check in as soon as possible with your emergency contact first and then with the UA International Emergency Support (email lprovenc@email.arizona.edu or call 24/7 520-307-9576).
- Closely monitor media and travel notifications from UA and the Smart Traveler Enrollment Program (STEP, www.step.state.gov).
- Do not wear clothing or carry items potentially identifying affiliation with the United States.

If you find yourself in a demonstration:
- Maintain a low profile.
- Attempt to quickly and calmly vacate the area immediately.
- If violence erupts return to lodging or go to another secure location.
- Do not watch or take photographs of rallies and demonstrations.

If you or your emergency contact has concerns for your immediate safety contact International Emergency Support at lprovenc@email.arizona.edu or for immediate support call/text 24/7 (520) 307-9576. You may also contact the University of Arizona Police Department at (520) 621-8273.

If travel plans are altered or canceled, please notify the International Travel Team (INTL-travelteam@email.arizona.edu).
