

Dear Study Abroad Student,

In light of the worldwide COVID-19 pandemic, we wanted to give you an update on the status fall start programs. As of this message, UA Study Abroad is moving forward with fall study abroad program planning. We will continue to monitor the situation in the coming weeks and are committed to ensuring students receive the most up-to-date information. Should the University of Arizona make any changes with regard to fall Study Abroad programming, we will reach out directly to applicants via email.

In the meantime, we recommend that students proceed with registering for on-campus classes when registration opens in April. This will ensure that you have a full fall schedule in the event that fall study abroad programs are unable to proceed.

Please visit the Study Abroad COVID-19 FAQs for updates from Study Abroad. Please also refer to the Campus Health COVID page, which contains advice for protecting your health as well as the most current updates on University travel restrictions or guidelines.

Stay Safe and Bear Down!
